PM for transparent regulatory regime to meet environment goals

NEW DELHI: Prime Minister Manmohan Singh pitched for transparent regulatory regimes to ensure that environmental and economic objectives are pursued in tandem. Stressing that protection of the environment and promoting development need not amount to a zero sum game, Singh said what is required is regulatory regimes that are transparent, accountable and can be monitored. “Indeed, regulatory regimes are often the basic necessary condition to ensure that environmental and economic objectives are pursued in tandem,” Singh said while inaugurating the Delhi Sustainable Development Summit.
