

Gireesh Shrimali

Gireesh Shrimali has over 20 years of experience and leads CPI's India team of analysts who work closely with the Ministry of New and Renewable Energy, the Ministry of Finance, and other policymakers to help advance India towards its clean development goals.

He directs the India Innovation Lab for Green Finance (India Lab), which identifies, develops, and accelerates innovative green finance instruments for scaling up investment in the renewable energy sector. He also leads US-India Clean Energy Finance (USICEF), India's first facility to help promising distributed solar projects develop into viable investment opportunities.

Previously, he taught at the Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey and at the Indian School of Business, Hyderabad.

Shrimali holds a PhD from Stanford University, an MS from the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, and a B.Tech from the Indian Institute of Technology (IIT), New Delhi.