

Akshima Tejas Ghate

Ms Akshima Tejas Ghate is working as a Senior Fellow and Associate Director at The Energy and Resources Institute (TERI), New Delhi. At TERI, Akshima is involved in research projects related to sustainable transport. Her recent research work focuses on policy issues related to promotion of sustainable transport systems in India; analyzing transport sector's energy consumption and climate change impacts; research related to sustainable urban transport; research related to railways sector in India; estimating carbon footprint/life cycle impact of transport projects and urban energy consumption; and sustainable mobility planning in large urban developments. She is also engaged with the TERI University as an Associate Faculty for delivering sustainable transport related courses at the University. She graduated as a Development Planner and has a Master in Planning with specialization in Environmental Planning from the School of Planning and Architecture, New Delhi. She is currently pursuing her PhD from the Department of Civil Engineering, Indian Institute of Technology (IIT), Delhi on sustainable transport. She is part of and actively works with several important national and international committees and networks focusing on sustainable transport. She has an extensive publication record on policy issues related to sustainable transport and has contributed to several important reports of the Government of India and UN.