

Pier Roberto Remitti

Mr. Pier Roberto Remitti, currently Team Leader of the EU International Urban Cooperation programme in India, is a senior policy adviser in the area of Sustainable Urban Development, Environmental Management, Climate Change, City management, Decentralisation policies and Public Administration. Overall, Mr. Remitti has more than 25 years of working experience in Sustainable Development policies and related management systems at urban, local and regional level, including programmes and projects preparation and realization up to pre-feasibility and feasibility stages, with country coverage across EU, Balkans, Middle East (Syria, Turkey), SE Asia (Vietnam, Malaysia, Nepal, India, Sri Lanka) and Africa (South Africa).

He has a considerable track record in projects, country portfolio and programmes/projects evaluations, including 25 years of working experience designing and implementing programmes integrating sustainable development, climate change, urban development, environmental management and institutional development, as well as 13 years in which he conducted at the international level as a Team Leader and/or Expert of EU funded projects for implementation of EU environmental/sustainable development/low carbon policies and standards at regional and urban local level. He has a vast experience with IFIs procedures: programmes/projects identification/formulation, Project Cycle Management, programmes/projects monitoring and evaluation/assessment (Syria 2006-2008, Vietnam 2007, Serbia 2008-2013, Sri Lanka 2013, Turkey 2014-2016, India 2016-present). He holds in-depth experience in participatory planning and policies formulation processes, including projects identification, implementation and selection/evaluation (Italy 1996 – 2008, EU and Adriatic countries 2002 – 2008, South East Asia 2004 – 2007 and 2012, Syria 2006 – 2008, Serbia 2008 – 2013, South Africa 2015, Turkey 2014-2016, India 2016-present).